Today Latest News :

- Reddit has struck a deal worth $60 million with Google, allowing Google to use Reddit posts for training AI models and enhancing services, while Reddit gains access to Google's AI for improving internal functions.
- It comes as Reddit announced plans for its IPO, aiming to list on the New York Stock Exchange, with its first profit in two years highlighted in its IPO filing.
- Despite Reddit's unique approach to user engagement and content recommendation, the collaboration with Google signifies a potential shift towards data monetisation, enhancing Reddit's valuation prospects for its IPO.
